What to Do After an Accident

After you're in an accident, the first thing to do is get medical attention for yourself and anyone else involved. This is crucial, both to make sure you're OK and to back up your case later. Next, gather all the evidence you can at the scene. Take photos if you're able to do so safely. Make notes and draw diagrams. If you were in a car accident, report the accident to your insurance company when you get home. Be brief and stick to the facts. Finally, get in touch with the our personal injury law firm.

Having an attorney in your corner gives you the best chance of fighting the insurance company and getting paid for your injuries. We are the Lodi, NJ, personal injury law firm that will fight to get you the compensation you deserve.

What Our Clients are Saying About Us!

I was with my son about to get to the cash register and there was a puddle of water that I didn't see and I slipped and fell. After I fell, I was in physical therapy for six months. I called Peter's office and Peter started working for me right away. I don't think the insurance company would have been fair with me if I didn't have a good lawyer. I would recommend the Peter Davis law firm to anyone who was injured in an accident.
